CALED TO ORDER.

Mayor Taylor called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock, and Patrolman W. G. Kuhn being the first on the accused list

The witnesses in this case were not present, so Mr. G. T. Duggins and Mr. V. Pendleton came in, charged with conduct unbecoming officers. Officer Gibson was the first witness against the accused patrolmen, and he told of the Eighteenth Street riot, out of which the charges had grown, Breet riot, out of which the charges had grown.

The trend of his testimony was that the accused officers had not been prompt in making arrests on the night referred to. The specific charge was that the officers named allowed a crowd to assemble unlawfully on a certain night at Eighteenth and Main Streets, without attempting to quell the riot.

Officer Wren corroborated the testimony of Mr. Gibson, and said the accused officers had stood by and failed to help them make any arrests.

Mr. Duggins made a statement, in which he said he would have gone cheerfully to the assistance of Officers Wren and Gibson had he known they were arresting any one. He had done all he could to quell the riot. He arrested two men and was urging the crowd back from the street all the while. The cars were blocked and great confusion prevailed, and witness had done the best he could under the circumstances. Mr. Pendleton settified along the same the.

The offiger denied that he had talked with any one in favor of the strike, Mr. Landerkin was a witness for Mr. Nelsz, but he had not heard the conversation, and Mr. Nelsz was sent home excused.

Application was made by Officer E. R. Robinson for the reopening of his case, and a letter was read from Hon. C. M. Wallace, Jr., on this line. Mr. Brooks, a stepson of the former officer, spoke for a reopening of the case, and said some new evidence could be brought out in favor of Mr. Robinson, which he thought would reinstate him. On motion of Mr. Whittet, Messrs, Whittet and Myers were appointed a committee to pick out certain signers of the petition in favor of reopening the case, and to have them summoned for next Monday night at 8 o'cock.

ARRESTED AT MINERAL

A negro, short, thick-set and black of face, was locked up last night in the Man-chester jail, whither he had been brought from Louisa county, where, suspected of being implicated in the Chesterfield assault affair, he was arrested yesterday by

The man, who gives his name as Charles McDonald, of Georgia, appeared suddenly in Mineral City Thursday night and was taken up the next day because of his subsequent suspicious actions. He was locked up in a warehouse until the afternoon, when Constable Grant, of Chesterfield, took him in charge and brought him to Manchester, reaching the latter place about 9 o'clock last night. The prisoner was promptly locked up in the Manches-ter jail, where he will remain until the three ladies who were attacked Tuesday are brought down from Centralia to iden-tify him. There is considerable doubt as to whether or not he is the right one. Mr. Grant feels confident, however, that he is on the right track at last. He telegraphed Captain Lipscomb to this effect yesterday.

Full Suit of Woman's Clothes Found Near the New Reservoir.

The discovery a few days back of a full suit of woman's clothes near the New Reservoir recalls the Cluverius case of many years ago, and arouses suspi-cions of foul play. Officers of Henrico, when questioned yesterday, stated that they had heard nothing of the matter, and, therefore, that they knew nothing to lead them to believe that there was any such significance to the discovery. It is possible, however, that there will be an investigation.

According to report, the clothes were found several days ago under a tree on the boulevard near the Cary Street crossing. They consisted of a complete set of woman's wear, with the single exeption of shoes. There was a brown jacket, a shirt waist of some light stuff jacket, a shirt waist of some light stuff, a pink silk sash, dark skirt, straw hat, corset and corset cover and full set of underwear. The discovery was made by Frank Blair, a city driver, employed in the excavation of the lake southeast of Reservoir Park. Near the spot where the ciothes were found is a plot of grass, which Mr. Blair says had the appearance of being well trampled.

When the clothes were found there was nothing near the place to indicate that there had been any foul play. There were no blood spots and no signs of a struggle, except, perhaps, the trampled grass. It is, therefore, taken to be eminently probable that the finding of the clothes means nothing so far as murder or the like is concerned. Still, the circumstance is a weird and mysterious one, and it is attracting no little attention. It is particularly interesting in that it recals the Cluverius affair, which occurred years ago at the Old Reservoir.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Kaufman, of Colora-do Springs, are visiting at No. 915 West Grace Street.

I INTEREST IN CONCLAVE

Cardinal Gatti's Chances Seem to Have Improved.

THOUSANDS VIEW DEAD

Scenes of Thursday Re-enacted in the Basilica of St. Peter's, Where Pope Leo Lies in State-Funeral To-Day.

(By Associated Press.) ROME, July 24.-Again to-day the body of Leo XIII, lay in state in the Basilica of St. Peter's, and about thirty thousand of St. Peter's, and about thirty thousand people passed before the catafalque during the day.

With impressive ceremonies the body will be interred to-morrow evening in a sarcophagus at St. Peter's, where it will remain until taken to its final resting place in the Church of St. John Lateran. Italian soldiers again to-day preserved order inside St. Peter's, where there was a repetition of the scene and crowd of yesterday.

Interest is now largely engrossed with the coming conclave and its result. The gossip of the day may be summed up briefly by saying that Cardinal Gotti's chances of the election seem to have improved in comparison with those of other cardinals who have been mentioned as likely to succeed the dead Pontiff, although there exists still a strong feeling that some one, hitherto scarcely talked of, will wear the tigra.

meeting of the conclave August ist, a week from to-morrow.

The consergation to-day also heard the secret reports from the nunclos at Vienna, Paris, Munich and Madrid. It approved the charity bequeathed by Leo to the poor, dividing it as follows: $10,000 for Rome; $4,000 for Perugia, where Leo was for many years archibishop, and $2,000 for Carpeneto, where the late Pontiff was born.

RAISING WALLS.

Inside the Vatican the work of arranging the apartments for the conclave has been begun. and the Philippines.

DI PIETRO POSSIBLE.

It seems, therefore, almost sure that if at the first ballot it is not probable that Gottl can be successful, this section of the sacred college will decide on Cardinal DI Pietro, one of Rampolla's most faithful followers. Rampolla, being a Sicillan, can count on the two Sicilian cardinals. One of them, however, Cardinal Celesia, archipshop of Palermo, is so old the is almost innety) that his relations strongly oppose his going to Rome to attend the conclave. For political reasons, all Spanish cardinals are favorable to Rampolla, besides a dozen Italians, thus making a total of twenty-five. But to be elected Pope it is necessary to get altogether over forty votes, as out of the present sixty-four cardinals, not more than two or three will be absent from the conclave.

sixty-four cardinals, not more than two or three will be absent from the conclave.

It is understood that the Prussian minister accredited to the Vatican has received instructions to favor the election of Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli or Cardinal Aglardi. Cardinal Kopp, bishop of Breslau, who arrived here yesterday, has been approached to the same effect.

The congregation of cardinals to-day decided to ask Monsignor Galli to deliver the funeral oration upon the late Pope and Moneignor Sardi the oration on the duties of the college, in connection with the selection of Leo's successor. These appointments, however, are of a tentative nature, and have not yet been officially communicated to the appointees. Moneignor Tarozzi was informally asked to pronounce the funeral oration, but declined, owing to bad health. For a similar reason Monsignor Pifferi, the confessor of the late Pope, declined an appointment as confessor of the conclave. The congregation has not yet accepted the declination, however, offering to appoint Monsignor Palmeri as his assistant. If Monsignor Pifferi persists in his declination to serve, the appointment will probably be given to Monsignor Palmieri.

Spotswood, an attorney of this city. The meeting was remarkable for the excellent order maintained throughout. There have probably been more enthusiastic meetings, but great enthusiasm was hardly to be expected in a crowded hall on such a warm evening. Besides this, the speeches were all conservative in tone and matter, and there was no special occasion for hilarious enthusiasm.

Will Hear From People.

Will Hear From People.

Will Hear From People.

The greatest enhusiasm of the meeting was that aroused by a statement in the address of Mr. Folkes, and another by Colonel Spotswood. Mr. Folkes mentioned the fact that the State had a debt of $25,000,000, and despite this it had been subjected to an expense of $50,000 by reason of this unfortunate controversy. He followed this by a significant statement that the people would have something to say on this subject when they came to vote. This statement was received with great applause. Colonel Spotswood unloosed the latent enhusiasm of his hearers by his tribute to the heroism of southern women, and of the women of this city to-day. For the most part the other applause was not as general and spontaneous, and sometimes seemed rather perfunctive.

Speech of Mr. Orr.

After Chairman Ryall's introductory speech, Mr. Rezin Orr, of Detroit, the national organizer, was introduced and spoke for nearly an hour. Mr. Orr reviewed the conditions existing in the street railway service here, and the effort of the former employes of the company to reach an agreement with the company. He traced in detail the history of this movement, and the successive failures of the company to make any concession whatever. The men were asking only what was reasonable, and what was granted by many similar corporations in other cities. Agreements of this kind had been found highly satisfactory. Mr. Orr paid a handsome tribute to the personnel of the local organization, and expressed gratification at the presence of the ladies and at the devotion they had shown toward the cause of the men and in the interest of organizations earlier so many women would not now have to work and in the interest of organized labor. Had there been labor organizations earlier so many women would not now have to work for their living, for the men would have been able to support them. The speaker expressed his gratification at the splendid audience, and at the earnest interest manifested in the cause of the striking car men. He was warmly applauded at intervals.

Mr. Charles M. Wallace, Jr., spoke on arbitration. He took up and enlarged upon the third article of the agreement sub-mitted by the men to the company, and denied that it was intended to take from the company the right to manage its own offers. It was merely proposed that if a aware of the injustice of his cause, said Mr. Wallace, and the crowd agreed with him vociferously. Mr. Wallace commended the men for their conservatism and good citizenship and expressed the opinion that they would defend any employe who was discharged or incompetent, if the company proposed to discharge such a one. Incidentally the speaker mentioned that he lad recently been in service as a soldier during the strike.

Mr. A. B. Dodge, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, was the next speak.

cable and for the good of both parties.

Ovation Given to Folkes.

Mr. Folkes was the next speaker. He was greeted with applause and the audience, which was growing a bit weary by this time in the crowded and warm hall, railled perceptibly when he was announced, and some who were on the outsidrts of the crowd refurned and listened attentively. Mr. Folkes spoke on law and order, and in the course of his speech denounced those who were attempting to bring the cause of the strikers into disrepute by their lawlessness. He expressed the opinion that there was not a man or woman present who would endorse the throwing of a stone or any other act of violence, Then came his reference to the debt of the State and the cost of the military service in connection with the disordershere, and his initimation that the voters would condemn at the polls this added burden upon the taxpayers. Mr. Folkes spoke briefly as it was late and the conditions rather uncomfortable, both for speaker and hearer.

Colonel M. L. Spotswood was the last speaker, and made a happy and graceful address. He had been commissioned, he said, by the meeting to expression the part of the strikers, their profound appreciation of the moral and financial support and the heroic sacrifices of the women fur the past and to that of the present generation and declared that a monument should be erected by Southern men to their women. His address was intersersed with compliment and pleasanties and was well received.

This closed the meeting, which was one of the quetest and most orderly retherings ever had in the Academy, After it was over the crowd started home in hacks, wagons and all other vehicles except cars, or walked.
